THE MEDICI RECORDS.

The documents contained in this series come from the Archives of the younger branch of the Florentine family of the Medici and belonged until recently to the Marquis Cosimo and the Marquis Averardo de' Medici. The whole of these Archives were put up for sale in London on the 26th of May, 1919,¹ and, after the Italian Government had exercised its right of priority, the largest part of what remained passed into the hands of Mr. Gordon Selfridge of London.

In the following list, the first number in brackets is the accession number in the John Rylands Library. The number in black type is the number of each document in the series. The other numbers are numbers which appears on the document and which were given by the various keepers of the Medici Archives in the XVIİth and XVIIİth centuries.
