HAND-LIST OF THE COLLECTION OF ENGLISH MANUSCRIPTS IN THE JOHN RYLANDS LIBRARY, 1928.

BY MOSES TYSON, M.A., PH.D.

KEEPER OF WESTERN MANUSCRIPTS IN THE JOHN RYLANDS LIBRARY.

The present hand-list has been prepared with the view of facilitating the use by students of the English section of Western manuscripts in the John Rylands Library. Each manuscript is very briefly described, its provenance is indicated, and if it has formerly belonged to some well-known collection the old number is also given.

The collection of English manuscripts may be said to have originated with the purchase by Mrs. Rylands in 1891 of a considerable part of the important and interesting collection of autograph letters and historical documents formed by the late Rev. Thomas Raffles, D.D., LL.D., of Liverpool. A few more English manuscripts were acquired when the Althorp Library was purchased from Earl Spencer in 1892; a small but extremely important group was added on the occasion of the sale in 1899 of the part of the collection of manuscripts made by the 5th Earl of Ashburnham which was generally referred to as the "Ashburnham Appendix"; and in 1901 the magnificent collection of manuscripts of the Earl of Crawford and Balcarres was purchased for the Library and included seventy-five English manuscripts. Since 1901 the collection has increased in numbers and interest as a result of gifts to the Library and of purchases made at 2 English MSS., Nos. 47-49, 52, 53, 62-72, 74.

3 Ibid., Nos. 75-87, 92.
sales and from booksellers. A considerable number of these accessions were formerly in the Library of Sir Thomas Phillipps.

The manuscripts vary greatly in importance and subject-matter. A number of them are of general interest and would be noteworthy in any collection. In particular mention may be made of two remarkably fine English manuscripts written in the first half of the fifteenth century, namely the richly illuminated copy of John Lydgate’s “Siege of Troy” (1) and the same author’s translation of Boccaccio’s “Falle of Princes” (2); of a copy of Wiclif’s translation of the Gospels which is supposed to have been presented to Queen Elizabeth in January, 1558-59, as she passed down Cheapside 4 on her way to St. Paul’s Cathedral (3); of a curious vellum roll bearing Queen Elizabeth’s signature and recording the New Year’s gifts made by and to the queen in 1559 (117); and of a form of cury 8 by the master cook of Richard II. (7).

There are no fewer than fifteen manuscripts of the Wiclifite Bible or of parts of the Bible, written in the fourteenth and early fifteenth centuries and providing examples both of the earlier and later forms of the Wiclifite translations; various Wiclifite treatises (85, 86); “The Pore Caitiff” (85, 87, 412); three MSS. of “The Prick of Conscience” (50, 51, 90); Nicholas Love’s translation of Bonaventura’s “The Life of Christ” (94, 98, 413); and various fifteenth-century sermons (109). Other manuscripts relating to religious history of a later date include a large number of notes and transcripts of manuscripts, concerned with Commonwealth Church History and the History of Dissent, by Dr. W. A. Shaw, M.A., Litt.D., of the Public Record Office. 6

Works of literary interest apart from those mentioned above are not numerous, but they range from fifteenth century MSS. of

1 English MSS., Nos. 8, 112, 171-198, 208-212, 416, 469.

2 It has been suggested that it is the book referred to in Holinshed’s Chronicles of England, Scotland and Ireland (London, 1808), iv, p. 168.

3 This work was edited from another MS. by Samuel Pegge, London, 1780.

4 English MSS., Nos. 81, 89, 92. A more detailed description of certain of the Wiclifite MSS., indicated in the following list, is given in the Rev. J. Forshall and Sir F. Madden’s Wycliffite Versions of the Holy Bible (Oxford, 1850, i, pp. lxiii-lxiii).

5 English MSS., Nos. 3, 75-80, 82-84, 88, 89, 91.

6 Ibid., Nos. 441-460.
Chaucer's "Canterbury Tales" (63, 113) to an autograph MS. of the late Mr. Thomas Hardy (124). The large collection of autographs, also, includes many papers which have a considerable literary and historical value. Thirty manuscripts are part of a collection of manuscripts, in Irish or of Irish interest, acquired by the Earl of Crawford in 1875 at the sale of the library of the Irish scholar, Denis Henry Kelly, M.R.I.A. They include many translations into English by Kelly and others of early Irish poems and prose works.

The proportion of manuscripts of interest to the historian is fairly high. They include six copies of the Brute chronicle, several with long continuations; useful collections of historical papers; a large collection of material bearing on the history of the seventeenth century; and two collections of papers relating to the history of the British in India and, in particular, of the East India Company.

The period of the Civil War had special interest for the late Mr. Edward Peacock, J.P. (†1915), of Bottesford Manor, Lincolnshire, and for the late Mr. W. Duncombe Pink (†1924), of Leigh, Lancashire, and their papers, notes, and transcripts, which are very numerous, are in the Library. Mr. Pink's papers mainly consist of a large quantity of material gathered together with the object of compiling a biographical dictionary of Members of Parliament. The dictionary was unfinished at the time of Mr. Pink's death, but the material has already proved of very considerable value to students.

A collection of news-letters (114) for the years 1667 to 1679 deserves special notice. Letter No. 34 has the following note which indicates the provenance of a number of the letters: "Sir, Mr. Williamson having committed to me ye care of his private correspondences I have thought fitt to acquaint you wt it yt in all itts concern you may please to adresse your commaundes solely to me att ye Ld Arlingtons Office att Whitehall. Your humble servt Charles Perrott."

1 English MSS. Nos. 478-507. A handlist of the Irish MSS. in the Library, including the remainder of the above collection, is in course of preparation. They include a number of transcripts of early Irish MSS. with English translations in parallel columns.

2 For D. H. Kelly (1797-1877) see D. J. O'Donoghue's The Poets of Ireland (Dublin, 1912).

3 English MSS., Nos. 102-105, 206, 207.

4 For Sir Joseph Williamson (1633-1701), see The Dictionary of National Biography.
The greater part of one collection of papers and letters on Indian affairs, recently in the possession of the late Sir Thomas Phillipps, belonged originally to Richard Johnson, an officer of the East India Company. Johnson, whose name frequently crops up in the correspondence of Warren Hastings from 1780 onwards, was for a time assistant to Nathaniel Middleton at Lucknow and in 1784, much to Hastings' disapproval, was appointed Resident at Hyderabad. He was described by Sir John Day as "a beardless Machiavel" and as being largely influenced by motives of self-interest. Mr. Sydney C. Grier, giving a short account of Johnson,\(^1\) says that he "seems to have been one of the people who must have a finger in every pie." His papers and letters are useful materials for those interested in Warren Hastings and in Indian affairs of the second half of the eighteenth century.

The other collection of papers and transcripts of manuscripts relating to India is, for the most part, later in date. They evidently belonged to John Charles Mason (1798-1881), who was appointed secretary in 1837 of the newly-formed Marine branch of the secretary's office of the East India Company, and afterwards, in 1859, became secretary of the Marine and Transport Department at East India House, Leadenhall Street, and later at the India Office, Whitehall.\(^2\) He arranged the transport of troops and supplies to India on the occasion of the Mutiny. Many of the papers are concerned with the Bombay Marine and the Indian Navy, and with arrangements for the transport of troops.

A collection of eighteenth-century manuscript maps and plans (469) of places in India and elsewhere in the East is worthy of notice.

The Heraldic MSS. in the Library include several fine armorials with numerous coats of arms beautifully emblazoned. Some of these manuscripts are the work of leading officers of the Heralds' College from the sixteenth century onwards. The finest examples formed part of the Crawford collection.

A large number of papers and notes by Dr. Shaw very considerably supplement his work "The Knights of England," original MSS. of which are also in the Library.

A number of manuscripts, chiefly concerned with Lancashire, Cheshire, and Lincolnshire, are of interest to those attracted by local history. Incidentally it may be worth while to mention here that there is a large collection of early charters and other original documents in the Library, many of which relate to families and lands of the above-named counties. The materials relating to Lincolnshire include many notes and transcripts of early registers, rolls, rentals, charters, wills, and other documents, made by the late Mr. Edward Peacock.

The remaining manuscripts in the collection include treatises on subjects so diverse in character as legal history, travel, medicine, mathematics, shorthand, astronomy, astrology and magic.

In the following list the number [R . . . ] is the Library accession number. Notes and names given in italics follow exactly the spelling used in the manuscript.
